Journal of the San Francisco Bay Area Jewish Genealogical Society

ZichronNote is published four times per year at the beginning of February, May, August, and November. Contribution deadline is the 15th of the month preceding publication. The Editor reserves the right to edit all contributions.

Family Finder queries are free to Society members. Non-members may place queries for $5.00 each limited to 25 words not including searcher's name, address and phone number.

Correspondence relating to items for publication, and requests for back issues should be addressed to Bob Weiss, 3916 Louis Road, Palo Alto, CA 94303-4541.

Production Note: This issue of ZichronNote has been composed on an Apple® Macintosh™ LC III, ClarisWorks™ V2.1v4 software, and printed on an Apple®Stylewriter II printer. Contributions may be submitted on 3-1/2-inch floppy discs in either DOS or Macintosh format.

Advertising: Display advertising will be accepted in ZichronNote The initial rate for a 2-column inch (3-1/2 x 2 inch) insertion will be $10.00 per issue, quarter-page ad $20.00, half-page ad $35.00, full-page ad $60.00. Ads must be camera-ready, relate to Jewish genealogy, and be in good taste.

Membership in the SFBA JGS is open to anyone interested in Jewish genealogy. Dues are $20.00 per calendar year. The Society is "exempt" per section 501(c)(3) of the IRS code. Make check out to "SFBA JGS" and send to: Sherrill Laszlo, Treasurer, 34 Craig Ave., Piedmont, CA 94611.

HIDEGENERAL PART

About This Issue

This issue of ZichronNote features two major items relating to Jewish cemeteries. On the positive side, we reprint a progress report which appeared several months ago by Arline Sachs, who is organizing a monumental project to catalog and index Jewish burials throughout the world. Our Society started to support this effort, and made initial submittals relating to the Bay Area, but we have had no volunteer to replace Dan Peletz to focus our efforts.

On the negative side, we reprint an appeal from Florence Marmor, who has discovered a plan to cover over a number of 19th Century Jewish graves in the Mokom Sholom Cemetery in Queens, NY and to re-sell the plots. We reprint the list of burials in that cemetery to aid Florence locate relatives who might be able to preserve their relative's gravesite, and as an aid for readers to locate burial sites of relatives in New York.

A summary account is given of a recent meeting in Palo Alto on Hispanic Genealogy by two Hispanic genealogists from San Jose. Both told of family traditions and ancestral names which would indicate that they are descendants of conversos (Spanish Jews forceably converted in the 15th Century). Another recent meeting dealt with Gaucher Disease, a genetic disease prevalent among Ashkenazic Jews. Our November article on the beta-thalassemia project was picked up by Gene Starn of the Orlando JGS and will be repeated in the Heritage Florida Jewish News. We received a warm thanks from Stanley Diamond who credits the genealogical networks for getting the word out about this important research. He also informed us of the recent formation of the JGS of Montreal.

We are reprint a useful article by Linda Cantor, President of the JGS of Long Island, originally printed in LIneage, and reprinted in Mishpacha, on how to obtain photographs of the early immigrant ships that brought our ancestors "across the pond".

Our book reviews include an original review by Bob Weiss of the new edition of the classic Jewish genealogy beginners reference From Generation to Generation by Arthur Kurzweil.

Our Genealogical Computing column gives instructions for computer tyros on how to establish service on JEWISHGEN, the Jewish genealogical bulletin board.

Member Irwin Keller sends us a translation of a brochure he picked up on a recent research trip in Berlin detailing the holdings of the Berlin Jewish Archives, and member Ruth Mayo sends us the 1995 National Archive workshop schedule.

Publishing Your Family History March 1995 Meeting Announcement

Our March meeting in San Francisco will feature Len Traubman and Gail Todd, who will display their books and describe how they put them together and had them published. The scopes of their books differ, as do publication techniques. This will be an excellent opportunity for members to see examples of methods of preserving and displaying their family histories and to question others who have recently published to gain from their experiences.

Hispanic Genealogy—Sources of Interest to Sephardic Researchers Norma Patricia Flores Patsy Castro Ludwig

The subject meeting of the San Francisco Bay Area Jewish Genealogical Society was held on December 19, 1994 in Palo Alto. Our speakers are Hispanic genealogists from San jose, California, and are the co-authors of the book A Beginner's Guide to Hispanic Genealogy, reviewed in the November 1994 issue of ZichronNote. Our speakers are also staff members at the San Jose FHC on Thursdays, 6-9 PM. The FHC is located at 4977 San Filippe Road, San Jose, near Evergreen College.

Many of the records discussed by Norma and Patsy are found at the Mormon Family History Library, and are obtainable through local Family History Centers. The records are accessed through the Family History Locality Catalog under the locality of interest.

For each locality of interest one finds records of the Catholic Church. For Spain and Mexico one would not expect to find specific Jewish records, since after conversion the individual records would be found among the church records, and admission of Jewish practice would be fatal. For this reason, "converso" records cannot be found.

But Jewish ancestry has a way of bubbling up through certain family and given names and practices among Catholics. An example was given by Norma Flores. The names Daniel and Abraham have been in Norma's family for many generations, and her grandfather requested that she name her son Abraham. A unique kind of bread, semitas (Semitic bread) has always been eaten in her family during lent. So Jewish background persists and is evident in names and practiced customs, open or hidden². Talk about Jewish background is usually accompanied by a "shiss" and a whisper.

Many of the Hispanic families with whom Norma and Patsy come in contact talk quietly about the customs practiced secretly by their families. Frequently the meaning of these practices has been lost but they are still done as family traditions. Norma's mother has a "star of David" pendant which has been handed down through the family. When asked where she got it she replies "I don't know". She has been told since she was a child never to eat meat and drink milk at the same time. And never eat blood. Her grandmother washed the chicken until there was no more blood in the meat. She never knew why. "That's just was the way it is." Other "give-away" customs are braided bread, circumcision, burning of candles in the closet, burial without a casket, signs on the doorpost, and washing before eating.

In areas such as New Mexico, where formal Catholicism took hold, practice was more devout, and the secret practices tended to die out. In other, less devout areas such as Nuevo Leon, Catholic practice and church attendence was more for appearance, and the secret practice of the crypto Jews persisted. These Crypto Jews were often of the business class, the females were educated and were teachers.

Names are the other indicators of Jewish background. A list of "typical" converso surnames was included in the extensive handout provided to members at the meeting. Castro and Flores, two of the speakers' family names, are Jewish names. When researching a Hispanic first name, always try to put a "Jose" or "Maria" in front of the compound name. Hispanics often have three first names and two surnames, and often used these common first names with their traditional names. Names were often changed before or after leaving Spain for the new land. There was a long discussion of Hispanic surnames which are on the meeting tape.

Familial names were often lost during mass baptisms, taking of baptizer's name, not carrying indiginous Indian names, and naming of bastard child-

There are many inquisition records available on microfiche in the FHL. These records often contain genealogical lines of the subject families. The major portions of these records have been copied and are available at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. The Bancroft Library at UC Berkeley has many original inquisition records. Records document family bloodlines and the permission to leave Spain to come to North America. Many conversos came as soldiers and as ships' crews.

Prior restrictions on Spanish church records have recently been lifted, and these records may now be borrowed and viewed at local FHCs. Records are sparse from Baja California. Some mission and military records are available. Some records are catalogued in a confusing manner, and are hard to find. Military records are easy to find at Bancroft, but the Mormon equivalents are filed under Chihuahua. Part of this confusion arises because during the Colonial period military records were prepared and filed in triplicate, with one copy filed locally, one sent to the capitanías generales (general captaincies—roughly the military headquarters for the area), and one to the colonial administrator in Spain.

Catholic church parish records contain birth, marriage, and death records. Some marriage records are accompanied by extensive family genealogies.

Mission records are found at the Archivos de la Las Indias in Seville, Spain. Research there is difficult. Before being allowed to do research one must have two letters of recommendation from the Spanish Consulate to prove that you are a serious researcher. On-location research in Mexico is the same. Records are not catalogued and records are stored in cartons, copying facilities are rare and abstracts must be made of the data. Spanish census records are excellent. The wife's maiden name is given.

Subsequent discussion included migratory patterns, racial mixing, reconversion, and personal experiences of converso families. Two films on the subject were highly recommended. The first, "El Santo Officio" is a film on the burial customs that distinguish the converso. It was shown in a European film festival, but is not available here. The second film is "The Last Marannos", a film on the clandestine practices of the Portuguese Jews.

Gaucher Disease Kim Hart & Seymour Packman

Gaucher disease is a genetic disorder that comes in three varieties. The most common variety affects 1 in 450 Ashkenazic Jews whereas among all Americans only 1 person in 40,000 is affected. For those affected the disease may be serious, but it responds to treatment. For many, the disease is mild. Tay-Sachs, the better known Ashkenazic genetic disease is always fatal.

At our November 20, 1994 meeting in San Francisco, Kim Hart, Genetic Counselor and Seymour Packman, MD, from the University of California School of Medicine described the cause, effects, incidence and treatment of the disease.

In the presentation, we learned the locations on the chromosomes where the mutations may occur, and we learned the arithmetic of the spread of Gaucher disease. For a child to be affected, both parents must be carriers. Among Ashkenazic Jews, 1 person in 10 is a carrier. In the general population, 1 person in 100 is a carrier.

If not treated, Gaucher disease may result in a grossly enlarged spleen and liver and deterioration of the bones, particularly at joints. In serious cases, the person is completely disabled.

The biochemical problem created by the genetic mutation is expressed as a deformed enzyme. Enzymes are supposed to act as catalysts, but if deformed, they fail to act. A treatment that has become available and that is evolving is to give patients dosages of a replacement enzyme on a monthly or more frequent basis.

Couples planning to have children may consider genetic testing and counselling. An individual can be tested to see if he or she is a carrier, but neither of the speakers recommended this as a routine procedure unless there was a history of the disease in the family. The fetus can also be tested, but even if the mutation were present in the fetus the parents would be told that the disease would respond to chemical treatment. This complexity indicates the advantage of having contact with a genetic counsellor such as Ms. Hart.

The study of the incidence of genetic diseases among Ashkenazic Jews and their Gentile neighbors in Eastern Europe indicates that there was not much admixture of the two populations for hundreds of years. This is a general conclusion that Jewish genealogists can examine in their own family trees.

UPDATE ON U.S. CEMETERY PROJECT

From Arline Sachs

Date: Mon, 25 Jul 1994 12:59:31 -0500

From: Arline.Sachs@f302.n109.z1.cgsg.com

(Arline Sachs)

Subject: CEMETERY REPORT

Dear Genealogist,

I now have over 135 files of data representing over 2000 different cemeteries. I have available a retrieval program that will access the data using menus. This will work for DOS only. I have also created a program to enter the data at a cemetery. You can get a copy of the data, and the program to enter data by sending me a formatted disk (any size, but it must hold at least 400K), a return label, postage to cover the return mail and I will make you a copy.

The following is a review of the stages and where we are now.

Stage 1: Creating a master list of all cemeteries (including foreign ones). They can be all-Jewish cemeteries or any that have a Jewish section, or just some Jews, but please indicate it if it not all-Jewish. In this list please include:

name of cemetery

location of cemetery

street address

city, state, country

additional instructions about where it is

years used

contact person (This may be the caretaker, whoever has the key)

and how to gain access, (the society caring for it, the synagogue, or even the person submitting the data, who would help interested people.)

phone number of contact person synagogue(s) who use(d) it approximate size (30 or 3000 graves)

all-Jewish or not

Everyone may not be able to get all this information, so just send whatever you have. Do not use a tiny font to get more than 80 characters per line. It must be in a form that I can change to ASCII. WordPerfect is fine. There are no special field sizes needed for this.

Occasionally a book has been written about a cemetery and this information is also included if it has been sent to me.

Stage 2: Indexing of the contents of local cemeteries. Several projects of this type are already almost complete. The program that you can use is the JGSCEMET that is on the disk mentioned above. If you can use that it will make it a lot easier for me to put it all together later.

If you wish to use your own data base then the fields should be as shown below. It was important to limit the size of a record to 256 bytes (characters) so that it would be compatible with various programs and computers. The data should then be sent in a delimited format. Delimited means "marks around each field and a comma separating the fields".

Last name	15
First and other names	30
Death date	9 (yyyymmdd)
Place of death	15
Birth date	9 (yyyymmdd)
Birth place	15
Cemetery	25
Location in cemetery	20
Father/Mother	45
Informant/Relation	35
Comments	65
Funeral Home	15
Spouse	20

I have had a number of people send this information to me already, and I have about 40,000 names so far. However I do not have it in a format ready for distribution yet. My husband and I are working on putting this together in a reasonable format and hope to have it ready by the seminar next year. If you have data available please send it to me.

Stage 3: In this stage a master index of all the names of those in the cemeteries will be created. I expect that the master index will include:

deceased's full name

date of death (or burial)

reference to cemetery and where find the full data base

Keep in mind that this is to be an INDEX of the data and not all the pertinent data will be in the index. Names will also eventually be included in the People Finder with reference to the cemetery. The names will be accessible via the spelling or via Soundex.

Please also contact any local (or not so local) Historical Societies. They may have already done some of this or may be willing to help with this project. Synagogues and funeral homes may also have some of this information.

Please submit data to me on an IBM-compatible floppy disk. I can read any size or density. Data may be in WordPerfect, Word, Lotus, DBase or any equivalent, or in ASCII. Just let me know which it is so I can figure out how to read it.

Remember that even if you don't have all the above info about a particular cemetery, please send what you have. It will probably be more that the next person knows.

I have found someone to translate Mac disks, so if you have a Mac and were not participating for that reason, that is no longer an excuse.. (:->) Mac users send disk to: Send DOS disks to:

My phone number is 703-971-2092

My E-Mail address is:

NVSACHA@VCCSCENT.BITNET Please do NOT send me data via E-Mail because I cannot properly capture it. Use it for messages only. If it is just a small amount of data it can be sent on this BBS.

Dave can also give you the data that has been collected in Mac form, but without the program to access it nicely. You will get a copy of each individual file. In DOS the total is over 400,000 compressed, so keep that in mind if you send a disk(s) to Dave. If you write to me the data is automatically compressed on the disk and unpacked only as needed, so it currently still fits on a DSDD disk 3 1/2" disk or a HD disk.

HELP - HELP - I NEED SOME HELP AND SOME COMMENTS PLEASE

This project is mushrooming quickly and while I will continue working on it, I do need some help desperately. Specifically:

1. Subchairperson for various areas that would handle what I am doing, ie put together the data as it comes in. Joachim Mugdan in Germany has volunteered to do this for Germany and is currently working on that. How about volunteering for an area that you are already familiar with? It could be a state, city, or country, or whatever you suggest.

2. I wrote to the CCAR (Central Conference of American Rabbis) which is the umbrella organization for reform Rabbis. They put a notice into one of their newsletters and I had quite a number of responses from individual Rabbis who knew of outof-the-way cemeteries around the country. I need someone to do this for the Orthodox, Conservative, and Reconstructionists. I just wrote to the Rabbinical Assembly, (conservative) but have not had an answer yet. I did not have a particular name to contact. PLEASE can someone contact the other two? or at least give me the addresses?

3. I asked some questions last time about how the individual data should be retrieved. As a result of those responses, we are retrieving on either the spelling or Soundex.

4. We do plan to have the Phase II information available for everyone at the seminar, but a question of distribution will need to be addressed. Does anyone out there know where one can get CDs made if the data is supplied? Probably 15 or 20 megs worth of data and programs by then.

5. The following statement has been suggested by a lawyer to be placed at the beginning of the retrieval program for the cemetery project. Please feel free to comment on this and/or to make suggestions, additions or deletions. I understand that there is no legal way we can prevent any conversions from this, but perhaps they will morally comply...

"This listing is donated to the public domain and may be freely copied. conditions can this listing be sold or used in any commercial fashion or for purposes of proselytism."

Please send me your e-mail comments to nvsacha@vccscent.bitnet or by general mail to 6212 Thomas Drive, Springfield, VA 22150-1220 USA. If you are on internet and have trouble with my email address you need to go through a gateway; therefore try this:

nvsacha%vccscent.bitnet@cunyvm.cuny.edu

P.S. I just spoke to someone at the United States Commission for the Preservation of America's Heritage Abroad. I have been working with them and they will forward their material to me when they finish. They have a questionnaire about any cemetery. If you are going abroad and think you might be visiting any cemetery, they would like to have you fill out the questionnaire. You can get a copy by calling them at (202) 254-3824, or writing to 1101 15th St., NW, Suite 504 Washington, DC 20005. They will forward the questionnaire to you. Their emphasis currently is eastern Europe, Poland, Austria, etc.

New York City Burials

Flora and Herbert Gursky of Great Falls, VA have compiled a list of burials in the New York City area from the landsmanshaften societies of Lysyanka and Tagancha in Ukraine, and Racioz, Sokolka, & Kuznica in Poland. The information includes the name of the individual, and, when it is available, birth and death dates, ages, Jewish name and annotations of family relationships. For information concerning specific individuals write to: The Gurskys, 10201 Walker Lake Drive, Great Falls, VA 22066. Please enclose a SASE.

Relatives Buried in Mokom Sholom or Bayside Cemeteries, NYC?

JGS (New York) members David Gevertzman, Florence Marmor and David Priever have researched a paper trail that suggests the existence of over 11,000 unmarked graves in the Mokom Sholom Cemetery in Ozone Park, Queens. Between 1881 and 1901 the Free Burial Fund Society of Congregation Derech Amuno, a Division of United Hebrew Charities and the original owner of Mokom Sholom, buried 11,132 persons too poor to pay for burials elsewhere. This information was found in records of the organization, to which these enterprising genealogists were led by findings of death certificates specifying that Jacob Finkelstone was the sole undertaker for all these burials.

It was not uncommon for free burial societies not to provide gravestones, and the families involved were typically unable to afford them. Furthermore, many of these burials were of children, and even if there were stones, they would be small ones. The ravages of time and vandalism could have caused these stones to disappear. Thus, although the northeast corner in the back of the cemetery has almost no stones, Marmor, Gevertzman, and Priever believe this is the area where most of the 11,000 burials took place. They even have found a 1929 aerial photograph that has markings which appear to be headstones in this area.

The current management of Mokom Sholom is dubious as to the evidence in this matter, preferring to believe that the vacant area is the results of abandoned plots. While they have not shown much sympathy towards the issue, they also claim that they have no plans for new burials in the area. Although it is not against Jewish law to layer burials (According to the Code of Jewish Law Chapter CXCIX, Section 5 "One coffin should not be placed upon another unless six hand-breadths of earth intervene between them"-Ed), the intrepid JGS genealogists are concerned that the area be proved to contain these unidentified remains. The Queens Tribune gave the issue publicity in a lengthy article in their October 20-26 issue. Anyone interested in assisting in the effort to preserve this burial ground should contact Florence Marmor at 718-296-2269.

From Dorot , Vol. 16, No. 1, Fall 1994

According to Florence Marmor, the manager of Mokom Sholom Cemetery claims that the back area of the cemetery, which constitutes approximately one third of the total area of the cemetery, is virgin land, and he intends to pour earth over the area which has no monuments and then resell the land for graves. This amounts to approximately one half of the section. He also intends to pour earth over a ravine where there are free burial graves, and sell these graves. The only way to stop him is by voting as a plot owner against him.

The following is a list of persons buried in the area in question. Most of them were buried in the Hebrew Free Burial Section, which ran from 1866 to 1901. No burial records can be found between 1866-1881. Records of the United Hebrew Charities organization which ran this free burial in association with Congregation Derech Amuno of New York, NY show Jacob Finkelstone as their undertaker. All death certificates for Mokom Sholom Cemetery state that the person is interred in Bayside Cemetery. Anyone with information please contact Florence Marmor at 74-08 97th Avenue, Ozone Park, NY 11416, Tel. 718-296-2269.

The above information and list have been supplied to ZichronNote by Florence Marmor by E-mail

Postscript

We have recently received a copy of an extensive newspaper article Resting in Peace? by Deena Yellin, Correspondent for The Jewish Week, published in the December 16-22, 1994 edition. It gives more information on the subject and includes quotes on the issue from all of the interested parties, including: David Jacobson, the cemetery's chief executive and caretaker; Rabbi Elchonon Zohn, director of the Rabbinic Council of Queens' burial society; Ralph Perfuto, Director of New York State's Division of Cemeteries; early members of Derech Amuno; and genealogists Marmor, Gevertzman, and Priever. If you desire further information, or plan to take any action in this matter, please obtain a copy of this very balanced and well-written article. Please send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Bob Weiss in care of ZichronNote for a copy, or pick one up at our next meeting.

Sacramento Cemetery Records

Dear Friends of History:

The Old City Cemetery at 10th and Broadway [Sacramento, CA] is going through changes. Please write to try to keep the Death Books in the Archives in Old City Cemetery. Many genealogical societies use them. Also encourage keeping the cemetery beautiful. In 1870 it was a park-like setting. Write or FAX to support adequate watering to: Sam Burns, Director Convention and Visitors Department 1030 15th Street, Suite 250 Sacramento, CA 95814 Tel: 916-264-8109, FAX 916-264-7687.

Berlin Jewish Archives by Irwin Keller

While in Berlin in September, I attempted to do some family history research. Some wild goose chasing led me to the new home of the Gesamtarchiv der Deutschen Juden, or at least its home address. It is physically held off-site (three hours away), and its index is off-site as well (only one hour away).

The archivist gave me an information sheet. Following is my best attempt at a translation:

"Information for Family History Researchers

Unfortunately we do not have at our disposal old membership cards of the Berlin Jewish Community or Jewish vital statistics index.

There is a printed edition of Judisches Adressbuch fur Gross-Berlin [Jewish Address Book for Greater Berlin], published in 1929/30 and 1931. These address books are available for viewing at our in-house Jewish Community Library (open Monday 10AM-noon and 1-6:30PM and Thursday 10AMnoon and 1-4PM) or in the Community Center Library on Fasanenstrasse 79/80 (Monday through Thursday 11AM-8PM and Friday 11AM-3PM).

Beside it is a joint volume of Judenburgerbucher der Stadt Berlin 1809-1851 mit Erganzungen fur die Jahre 1791-1809 [Berlin Jewish Citizen Books for 1809-1851, with 1791-1809 supplement] (pub. Berlin, 1962); as well as Judische Trauungen in Berlin 1759-1813, mit Erganzungen fur die Jahre von 1723-1759 [Jewish Marriages in Berlin 1759-1809, with 1723-1759 supplement] (pub. Berlin, 1968).

The Gedenkbuch fur die Opfer der Verfolgung der Juden unter der nationalsozialistischen Gewaltherrschaft in Deutschland 1933-1945 [Memorial Book for Victims of the Persecution of Jews under the Nazi Tyranny in Germany, 1933-1945], two volumes, (pub. Koblenz Federal Archive, 1986) is available in the libraries as well. Unfortunately it has numerous errors and covers only Berlin and the old West Germany area. Currently, through a project of the Central Institute for Sociological Research at the Berlin Free University, an updated edition is being prepared.

On-site we have exit cards for the Berlin Jewish Community (from the 1870s) and an index of community members after 1945. Please understand that, for the protection of these individuals and this information, you cannot view the index itself. We instead request that you submit your questions in writing (with the most exact names and information of the person sought as possible) or set up an appointment with us.

With advanced notice you can view copies of the Verzeichnisse der wahlfahigen Mitglieder der Judischen Gemeinde zu Berlin [Catalog of Selected (?) Members of the Berlin Jewish Community] for years 1883, 1886, 1889, 1892, 1898, 1904, 1907 and 1910.]

At the Berlin-Weissensee Jewish Cemetery, Herbert-Baumstr. 45, 13088 Berlin (Tel. 965 3330) is the complete index of interments from 1880 through the present. The associated files with further information regarding the burials and the deceased are currently being restored and filmed and are therefore not accessible. We foresee that microfiche of these files will exist by the middle of 1995.

Among the files of the Gesamtarchiv der deutschen Juden [Comprehensive Archive of German Jews], which we manage jointly with the federal archive, Potsdam division, and which currently are still stored off-site at the federal archive in Coswig, there are virtually no vital statistics records remaining.

The supplemental index of the census from May 17, 1939 (earlier known as Sippenkartei [Kinship Index]) is currently at the Federal Archive, Potsdam Division, Berliner Str. 98-101 (PO Box 600 447, 14404 Potsdam), Tel. 0331/3140.

You can find deportation lists (in combination with property confiscation prior to Deportations and from Emigrants) at the Landesarchiv Berlin [Berlin National Archive], Kalckreuthstrasse 1-2, 10777 Berlin. Also at the Landesarchiv is the Berlin Municipal Court registry of "Jews and Dissidents" for the years 1847-1874 as well as microfilms of some portions of the Berlin Jewish community.

After the introduction of the Standesamter [Registry Offices] on Oct. 1, 1874 in Prussia, all vital statistics information was directed there. For each Berlin district there is an independent Registry Office. The Berlin-Mitte district's Registry Office is located at Alexanderplatz 1, 10783 Berlin.

Answers to inquiries regarding reparations can be found at the Landesverwaltungsamt Berlin [National Administration Office/Berlin], Reparations Department, Postsdamer Strasse 186, 10783 Berlin.

Films of the Jewish vital statistics index can also be found in the Deutschen Zentralstelle fur Genealo-gie [German Genealogy Center], Kathe-Kollwitz-Strasse 82, 04109 Leipzig, as well as in the Federal Archive, Potsdam Division, and in the Jewish Museum, Frankfurt am Main, Untermainkai 14/15 60311 Frankfurt/Main (for the new Federal lands and the former Eastern territory) as well as in the old Federal lands at any given time in the local State Archive.

Get On-Line With JEWISHGEN

Anyone with a computer, modem and access to Internet now also has access to a worldwide Jewish genealogy mail list called JEWISHGEN, recently formed by a joining of JEWISHGEN (Fidonet) with its Internet counterpart ISRAEL.GENEALOGY, forming a single large world-wide message base.

If you subscribe, all JEWISHGEN messages will be sent to your computer mailbox (sometimes as many as 25 in a group). Messages you send will be distributed to subscribers, usually within 24 hours. There is no charge for subscribing, however, you may be subject to local Internet send and receive charges, local phone charges, or time charges by your service provider.

It is easy to subscribe and unsubscribe (if you decide the mail list doesn't suit you). To subscribe, send Internet message to:

"listserv@israel.nysernet.org"

Write a single line message:

"sub jewishgen your-firstname your-lastname" You will get a confirmation message. If you are getting charged by the message, it is suggested that you combine daily messages by replying to the confirmation message with the following single line:

"set jewishgen mail digest"

Address messages for posting to all subscribers to:

Have You Seen Your Bubbe's Ship? by Linda Cantor From the Summer-Fall 1993 Lineage

Do you know the name of the ship Bubbe or Zaide came on to America? Do you have a photograph of that ship? Do you know where or when it was built, where it travelled, or how it ended its days? For example, the Vaderland, the ship on which my grandfather sailed to America in 1910, was the second ship with this name. It was built in 1900 in Glasgow, Scotland, sailed from Antwerp, Belgium, to New York for the Red Star Line, carried 1140 passengers, 600 of them in steerage, and was converted to a troopship, torpedoed and sunk during WWI. If this type of information intrigues you, then read on.

There are several excellent sources for obtaining information about, and photos of, these ships. Write to the following sources, asking if such photos are available for your family's ships. Be sure to provide the exact name of the ship, ports travelled to and from, and the date of the voyage (successor ships sometimes get the same names and you want to be sure to get the correct one.)

Peabody & Essex Museum, Ms. Kathy Flynn, Dept. of Photography, East India Square, Salem, MA 10970, 508-745-1876. They will send you a photocopy of the photo they have, along with some information about the ship, and the cost. (An 8x10 black and white photos cost from $12 to $20 plus $2.50 postage, and $10 more if a negative must be made.)

Hapag-Lloyd A.G., Postfach 102626, 2000 Hamburg 1, Germany. If the ship you are researching belongs to Hamburg-American Line of the Lloyd Line, the successor company, Hapag-Lloyd A.G. might be able to help you obtain a photo of the ship.

Deutsches Schiffahrts Museum, Van Ronzelen Strasse 285, Bremerhaven-Mitte, Germany, &

Museum für Hamburgishe Geschichte D2000, Hamburg 36, Holstenwall 24, Germany may be able to help you with information about ships of other German flag lines.

Lloyd's Shipping Register, Lead Librarian, Lime Street, London EC 3M 7HA, England. Some of the Lloyd's Shipping Register is in the New York

Public Library as well.

The Mariners Museum, Ms. Charlotte Valentine, Assistant Archivist, Research Library and Archives, 100 Museum Drive, Newport News, Virginia 23606-3759, 804-595-0368. If they have the photograph you're interested in, they will reply to your inquiry with the catalog number and a price list. The price of an 8x10 black and white photo is $12; if you have to order a negative, add $35 to the cost.

Steamship Historical Society of America Collection, University of Baltimore Library, 1420 Maryland Avenue, Baltimore, MD 21201-5779, 410-625-3134. It has 60,000 ship prints, 30,000 negatives, 25,000 printed postcards, and an extensive collection of books on historic steamships. It is open Monday-Friday, 8-4, and is a wonderful library to browse. Copies of pictures may be purchased by mail. The SHSA charges $10.00 for an 8"x10" black and white photo plus $10 additional if a negative is required.

From Generation to Generation by Arthur Kurzweil

This is a revised and updated edition of the classic beginner's manual for Jewish genealogy. Subtitled How to Trace your Jewish Genealogy and Family History, this update and reprinting has been long awaited in view of advances in the availability of data sources since its first printing in 1980.

The book, re-organized into nine major sections, is much more easily used by the beginning researcher than its predecessor. It is written in a personal way, and is easy to read—with frequent examples from the author's genealogical experiences. Some of the more contentious issues of the previous version dealing with women's role in Jewish genealogy and the shortcomings of a peer's book have been thankfully omitted. But deletion of the short section on Sephardic research leaves an important void.

I will structure my review along lines of the chapter headings of the book.

1. These Are the Generations: Climbing Up My Family Tree

Mr. Kurzweil relates the joys and satisfactions he derived from his genealogical research, and this first chapter is a delightful instructional and inspirational introduction for the beginning Jewish genealogist. The author wisely omits the 38 pages of readings on Jewish genealogy which were included in his previous edition.

2. How to Begin Your Search

This section remains an excellent prescription for the beginning genealogist, describing how to start with information available from family sources.

3. Checking the Records

Brief discussions of the major record sources include updated names and addresses of the National Archives Regional Archives. Reference to the book The Archives: A Guide to the National Archives Field Branches would have been relevant here. This omission illustrates a major flaw in the book. There are too few references to general research sources which are of great help to the Jewish researcher. Discussions of vital records without mention of The Source or Ancestry's Redbook does a dis-service to the beginning genealogist, Jewish or gentile. Any discussion of the use of public or university libraries for research should include a discussion of the interlibrary loan (ILL) system as well as the means of searching the holdings of remote libraries through OCLC and RLIN.

4. Jewish Genealogy: The Basic Sources

This chapter, of some 160 pages, contains new-ly-added material which probably makes the revised edition worth purchasing. Although poorly organized, of uneven treatment, and already a bit dated, this chapter introduces the beginning Jewish genealogist to the sources and resources he will find of greatest use as he transitions from U.S. to European records.

Mr. Kurzweil presents a catalog of Avotaynu publications complete with (already outdated) prices and address. It is unfortunate that he does not mention that most of these materials are available for the use of beginning genealogists at most local Jewish Genealogical Societies.

He includes a selected index for the first eight years of publication of Avotaynu (an excellent research aid) and later refers to the several local JGS newsletters, "...most notably the Los Angeles Jewish Genealogical Society of Cleveland, and the Jewish Genealogical Society of New York." These publications Roots Key, The Cleveland Kol, and Dorot are but three out of many of high quality publications, including Mishpacha, ZichronNote, LIneage, Shem Tov, Chronicles. The indexes to most of these publications may be found on the 24-microfiche set Publications of the Jewish Genealogical Societies also found at your local JGS meeting site.

Why use space to talk about Toledot, out of print for over ten years, without presenting an index to the "pleasing, popular, and useful" articles found in this publication? And the brief listing of special interest group (SIG) publications omits the grandmother of them all, Landsmen, publication of the Suwalk-Lomza Interest Group for Jewish Genealogists.

Six pages of Family Finder ads from the Spring 1993 Avotaynu are presented where one would suffice to illustrate this form of networking. The beginner should be advised to place an ad in the newsletter in the area his quarry lived.

One of the most useful additions to the revised version of Mr. Kurzweil's book is the slightly updated version of "Bibliography of Jewish Genealogy", by Rabbi Malcolm Stern z"l which appeared in the Spring 1991 Avotaynu. Mr. Kurzweil's updates from the 1991 version of this list consisted of adding Alice Eicholtz's Ancestry's Red Book and David Zubatsky's second volume to his Jewish Genealogy to the list, and in updating the publisher and date of his own book. He missed the fact that Search had gone out of print, that the 1920 census had been released, and that Mr. Zubatsky had also issued another wonderful reference, Jewish Autobiographies and Biographies—An International Bibliography of Books and Dissertations, in 1989.

Other omissions in referenced sources bothered this reviewer. The brief discussion of mohel books cites the collections at the Leo Baeck Institute and the Central Archives for the History of the Jewish People, but not those of the Jewish Theological Seminary of New York and the Jewish National and University Library. These latter collections have been indexed by community in the May 1992 and Feb 1994 issues of ZichronNote respectively. The discussion of Hebrew subscription lists stops with the Kagen list, with no mention of "volumes two and three" by Shlomo Katzov, and of the work being done to augment these works by Patrick Gordis and Chiam Freedman.

The updated yizkor book list is a valuable addition to the book with its inclusion of bibliographical data on the references. Shtetl names and countries. however, do not correspond to current spelling and political boundaries, forcing use of Where Once We Walked to enable their location on modern maps. The list of collections of yizkor books is incomplete in two important respects. There is a substantial collection in the Price Library of Judaica, University of Florida which is available through interlibrary loan, making it valuable to researchers not near a large local collection. The other omission is of importance to our Northern California readers. The Holocaust Center of Northern California in San Francisco has a collection exceeding 600 yizkor and memorial books. And in indicating how to obtain yizkor books, the author omits purchasing from book dealers, such as Robinson, Dzialowski, Mass, Schreiber, etc.

The list of Jewish Genealogical Societies in this chapter is woefully out of date. Granted that it is an impossible task to keep up with the current addresses of JGSs that have yearly elections, one would think that a book copyrighted in 1994 could have a list more up to date than 1991. One third of the addresses are incorrect, 5 non-existing societies are listed, and 13 existing societies are not listed. Noteworthy is the existence of JGSs in Australia, Brazil, Russia, and Lithuania. This would have also been a good place to include the names of the JGSs' publications, since much of the networking the genealogist will be doing will be through this medium.

5. The Names in Your Family

This fine introduction was updated with a citation of two new references on Jewish surnames—one by Alexander Beider and the other by Heinrich and Eva Gugenheimer. The beginner should have been instructed as to how to use Beider to investigate location of his family as well as name meaning. It is a doubly-useful reference.

6. Holocaust Research: To Give Them Back Their Names

This chapter was slightly expanded from its original, mainly in the areas of availability of pages of testimony from the Yad Vashem, and the very valuable services of Batya Unterschatz of the Jewish Agency Search Bureau for Missing Relatives in Jerusalem. It should also have been upgraded with respect to using the local Red Cross offices to process International Tracing Service inquiries, the slowness of their response, and the availability of the ITS index in the Yad Vashem Archive. The chapter is, however, a good introduction to the subject.

7. Your Immigrant Ancestors

This chapter remains as it was, an excellent introduction to the history of immigration, related documents, and how to obtain them.

8. The Old Country

This chapter has been updated to reflect the publication of that magnificent tool for locating your relative's shtetl, Where Once We Walked. This would have been a wonderful place to show, by example, the power of the Daitch-Mokotoff East European Soundex to help locate the shtetl for which you have only a phonetic spelling, or a spelling no longer used. This knowledge would help the beginner better use Beider, the Russian Consular Records Index, WOWW, etc.

Other welcome updates include information on travel to Eastern Europe and obtaining records from archives of the Commonwealth of Independent States.

9. Jewish Cemeteries

This excellent chapter remains substantually unchanged. It is a good treatment of the subject, and includes details on translating Hebrew dates and some inscriptions.

Appendix: A Family History Workbook

The appendix presents excellent advice to the new researcher on organizing his research, with some forms which can be reproduced and used daily

Dropping of the section on Sephardic research, history, and sources in the revision of this book was a mistake. But a much more grievous failing of the book is the ignoring of the benefits available in using a computer for genealogy. There is more to the subject than the selection of a computer, and Avotaynu is not the place to send a novice for advice in this matter. As a minimum the benefits should have been explained of using a computer for recording family history data, for searching databases and library catalogs on-line, for networking with other genealogists, for sharing data through the Jewish Genealogical People Finder and the Beit Hatefutsoth Dorot Jewish Genealogical database, and for publishing your family history. If only one piece of advice was given in Mr. Kurzweil's book it should have been: Make sure that any program you use has GEDCOM capability.

I wholeheartedly recommend this book to new Jewish genealogists. Its scope and depth are good despite the failings mentioned above. Assuming that the novice associates with a JGS and starts using the available resources, he will quickly fill in the holes in the book. I would not recommend that the owner of the early edition purchase the revised version. The additions are available elsewhere in a more upto-date state.

From Generation to Generation Revised Edition by Arthur Kurzweil, 1994, HarperCollins Publishers, New York, NY, 388 pages is available from the publisher for $27.50, with volume discounts available if purchased through your local JGS.

Book Briefs

The August, 1994 issue of The Kosher Koala includes a three-page listing of books of interest to Jewish family historians. The listing covers books on Poland, Lithuania, Ukraine, Russia, Slovakia, Bohemia, Moravia, and Czechoslovakia.

Family Finder Ads Work By Sharon Fingold

Looking for missing members of your family? Have you tried a family finder ad in this newsletter? I finally took advantage of a wonderful service our society offers free to members and at minimal cost to non-members.

I put three family finder ads in the last issue of our newsletter. I submitted an ad for three branches of my family that had California connections. In my ads, I listed parents' names and their children. I gave the names of in-laws too. I received responses to two of the ads and through those responses connected to new branches of my family. In both cases, I received a response because of the in-law names!

In one ad, I announced my interest in the GOLDENs of St. Paul, MN. My grandmother had lost touch with her Golden cousins 50 years ago. I mentioned that one Golden had married a SIPKINS. Luckily for me, Len Traubman was interested in the SIPKINS name. He gave me a call. After we talked he used his Minnesota connections to track down some Sipkins for me. He found one for me in Palm Springs. The person I talked to in Palm Springs turned out to be the cousin of a Golden relation and he was able to give me her phone number in Minnesota. Thanks to Len and the Sipkins cousinin-law, I was able to connect with a Golden relative. We have shared information and I hope to learn lots more about that branch of the family. (Thanks Len!!)

In another ad, I announced my search for descendants of Louis and Lena EPSTEIN. I listed all of their children and I listed their daughters' married names. One daughter married a BARBANELL. Someone who read our newsletter saw the name Barbanell and called a friend with that name in San Francisco. Cliff Barbanell called me and told me I had listed his aunt! Cliff called his brother who was able to provide an Epstein name and phone number in Southern California. I called the Epstein number, found a whole new branch of the family and, after a number of phone calls to many Epstein relations, discovered a second cousin two times removed just 3 miles from my house!! (Turns out he and I had attended the same wedding 5 years ago!) The only "bad" thing I can say about the results of the Epstein ad is that I have tons of follow-up/thank you letters to write. Many thanks to the person who helped me connect to the Epsteins via C. Barbanell!

I had been thinking about submitting some ads ever since I became a member (4 or 5 years ago!), but had procrastinated. I made excuses: "I'm too busy." "I don't have family in the area." "I've listed my names in the national family finder and haven't received one response, why would I get a response through a local ad." etc, etc. Don't wait!! Submit your ad now. You never know; you too may find whole new branches of your family!! And, if nothing else convinces you to do it, remember: Ads are FREE for members!

Dear Mr. Weiss:

The consolidated index arrived today. Thank you very much for doing the work, making it available, and sending it to me. Its format is clear and concise and useful, and its coverage is extensive. I am impressed!

I do think I will get myself a box of thank you notes and address them to you and the SFBA JGS because you are always providing assistance to me. (In between helping others, I hope you have time for your own research.)

Many Thanks. Mary Tonya Young

Tonya:

You are very welcome. The 40-page Consolidated index of 13 years of the SFBA JGS Newsletters and ZichronNotes is available by mail for $3.00, and at meetings for $1.50. The complete archive with indexes has been microfiched by the LDS and should be available at local LDS Family History Libraries. Ask for Fiches #6075936 & 7.
